"THE ADVENTURES OF ROBINSON CRUSOE"

Chapter Thirteen

"Sword of Courage"

ROBINSON CRUSOE, with his faithful servants, and Marion Gale set sail for England, leaving the mutinous seamen on the island. A fire is discovered. Crusoe and Marion are hemmed in by the flames, when a door falls and they are saved. They are adrift for many days on the China Sea, with their supply of water almost gone. Morning dawns on the coast of China. Here they find turtle eggs, kill a duck, make a fire and eat. They start out to explore the island. Gascoign, a gentleman adventurer, chief of a pirate crew, and his crew, see the smoke from the fire, and find the ashes still hot. Friday, who has stayed behind to put out the fire, sees them and believes they are enemies. He tries to lead them on a false trail, to save his beloved master. Crusoe, in search of Friday, nears the pirates' cave. He is told to surrender, but refuses. A duel ensues, with three pirates against Crusoe.
